When looking through some books, Miss Hannah Aldridge found an Episcopalian Prayers Book, which belonged to her great, great, great aunt. It was printed in London, England, in 1753 and contains prayers for every day in the week and for all classes of people. It is a great curiosity, the printing very peculiar and hard to read as the f and s are alike.

Merry Christmas is almost here and our faith should always be bright and clear and our love deep and wide to all mankind, at Xmas time. Yes, soon the old year will be gone and the inscrutable future will be before us. What it will bring no one can tell. And as this is our last letter to The Record, we wish the editor and helpers a merry Xmas and thank him for being so charitable in looking over all mistakes and for all favors shown. Wherever I shall be, will always have a warm place in my heart for The Record and be its friend.
